H. T. Rogers Dead.

Mr. Sam J. Rogers, yesterday, received a brief telegram from his sister-in-law at Lynchburg, Virginia, telling him her husband, Mr. H. T. Rogers had died at that place. Mr. Rogers had the agency for a Mill Supply House and had but just established his headquarters at Lynchburg, when he was taken ill with typhoid fever. No particulars are so far known about the burial. Mr. Rogers was well known here where he had long been in business and had a wide circle of friends. The news of his untimely death will be received with much sorrow by those who knew and loved the big hearted, whole souled, genial, friend and companion.

Lynch.—Mr. Rogers' remains will be brought here Wednesday. The burial will be at Crown Hill Cemetery, Sharpburg.

Mr. G. W. Baird and wife leave to-day for Atlanta, Ga., to attend the great Southern Exposition, which is now being held in that city. Mr. Baird will furnish us each week during his stay with a letter in regard to the exhibition and the South, which will be of interest to our readers. They will be absent until November 1st.

The Central University foot-ball team, of Richmond, played the K. W. C. boys at Winchester Saturday, which resulted in Winchester's defeat by a score of 10 to 0.

Never Next—Always Ahead.

Jack Tharp has moved his barber shop to the Commercial Hotel, and he has moved his trade with him. When a young man wants to go to see his best girl on business (?) he always has Jack or one of his men fix him up for the occasion. The fact is Jack runs the best barber shop in the State. He always treats his customers politely and insists that those employed by him shall do the same. The consequence is Mr. Tharp has built up a trade that he has no fear of any one breaking down. Mr. Tharp extends a cordial invitation to all his old customers, and to any others who want good work and courteous treatment, to call and see him in his new quarters at the Commercial Hotel. He promises all that no shop shall be better equipped to give good service than his, and that he will personally see to it, that everything is done decently and in order.

Why Not You?

When thousands of people are taking Hood's Sarsaparilla to overcome the weakness and languor which are so common at this season, why are you not doing the same? When you know that Hood's Sarsaparilla has the power to cure rheumatism, dyspepsia and all other diseases caused by impure blood, why do you continue to suffer? Hood's cures others, why not you?

Hood's Pills are prompt and efficient, 25 cents.

Three Killed.

Mr. A. B. Ratliff report to us a distressing accident that occurred near his father's residence not far from Sharpburg on Thursday. A party of men are constructing a turnpike through the neighborhood and had prepared a blast. The charge of powder was unusually large and many persons had come in from the neighborhood to see it explode. When the fuse was fired all went to a safe distance and waited, as they thought a full time for the blast to fire. The time for the fuse to convey the fire to the powder having expired, several men went up to see what was the matter. Three of the party were bending over the place where the hole was driven when the blast exploded, killing the three men. One wounded, Bowling Young, a man from Nicholas county, son of the contractor, and two other young men from Mason county. They were all frightfully mangled. In a few minutes more curiosity would have brought a great number within the danger line.

Dr. W. T. Tibbs will fill the pulpit at the Christian church next Sunday, in the absence of the pastor Elder H. D. Clark, at the general Christian Endeavor Convention at Dallas, Texas.

KENTUCKY BANKERS

PROGRAMME OF SPEECHES TO BE DELIVERED AT OWENSBORO.

Judge H. R. French one of the Speakers.

OWENSBORO, Ky., Oct. 13, 1895.

The arrangements for the annual meeting of Kentucky Bankers' Association, which will be held at Owensboro, October 13, have been completed. Secretary C. C. McClary this morning gave out the official programme, which is as follows:

Address of welcome, Hon. J. D. Powers, of Owensboro. Response by Mr. H. R. French, of Mt. Sterling.

Relation of the banks to the Community. Mr. Geo. C. Thompson, of Paducah.

"Handicaps to the Banking Interest." Capt. John H. Leather, of Louisville.

"Kentucky,—Past, Present and Future."

Thanks

The following action was taken by the session of the First Presbyterian church at their meeting Sunday, and ordered a copy sent to each of the county papers.

We, the session of the First Presbyterian church, desire to thank the members of other churches and the people of Mt. Sterling for the interest manifested in our recent celebration and their kindness in helping to entertain the members of the Presbytery and Synod. We appreciate the help of the choir of the several churches the use of the Southern Presbyterian church for the meetings of the ladies, and the correct and full accounts of the meetings given by the several papers of the city and most heartily thank them all.

PILED AWAY UP!

Our store is piled full of NEW THINGS for MEN to wear this winter. We suppose other stores are well stocked too. Now is a splendid time for the careful buyer to go around to all the dealers and see where goods fit the prices. We like to have our Clothing and prices compared with those of our competitors. The verdict is nearly always in our favor. It isn't very often that the careful buyer decides against us.

Death of Mrs. Carrie King.

Mrs. Carrie King, aged 89, a most estimable woman, died at the home of her niece, Mrs. Annie E. Bean, on Sunday. Mrs. King's maiden name was Jones and she was twice married, but for more than a score of years she has been a second time widowed. For a number of years she has been almost helpless invalid and has been tenderly cared for by her kinwoman. Born almost at the sunrise of the century she lived till the God of day was slaking rapidly into the West. Her life was like her death, quiet, and so far as she could order it, peaceful and gentle.

The funeral takes place to-day at Mrs. Bean's residence, one mile West of town, Rev. A. J. Arrick conducting the service. The burial will be in Maplehill.

ture," Gen. Basil Duke, of Louisville.

"The Financial Problem in the United States," Hon. Malcolm Yeaman, of Henderson.

In addition to these papers the three prize essays on banking written by Kentucky bank clerks, will be read. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected, and reports of present officers heard. The indications are that the meeting will be one of the largest and most interesting ever held.

Great Race To-morrow.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 14, 1895.—(Special to ADVOCATE)—Announce to to-morrow's issue the great race amongst racing kings, Robert J. Joe Patchen, John R. Gentry and Frank Agan here Wednesday.

A New Species of Tobacco.

A peculiar kind of tobacco has developed this season on J. M. Elchert's Salt Well farm, near the Bath County Baner. From one stalk three separate and distinct branches have radiated, each branch containing about the usual number of fully developed leaves borne by one plant. In the crop there were fully 500 stalks developing this peculiarity. In addition to the increased yield, the stalks did not have to be split, as is always the case when putting it in the barn, as one of the prongs saved all that trouble.

If you are looking for the newest and nicest attraction you can't go by Mrs. Kate O. Clarks'. Every day she is adding the newest novelties in millinery, notions, etc.

TO THE STREET CHILD PEOPLE.

You who cower along the pavement parter
Or in your haunts,
And find the ripple of your stained chamber
Enough to feed your soul,
Hear, you brave battlefields, who stroll through Down Broad street, all alike,
This message blown from leagues of purple leather.
From free and field and dune.
Hear ye the song of those who stand asunder
From busy ways of the world,
Who hold communion with the nameless wander
That laments the misty gies.
Who love the wind that whistles through the edges
And feels the sun upon
The rosy glowland and the dripping beads
And the blue hills that rise from the When have you listened while the snipe is drumming
Above the silver reeds.
Or panted to catch the curlew's whistle com ing
For hearted across the meads?
When have you, lingering in the forest marches
Through twilight of July, Seen the big brown heron stoop between the larches,
A solitary passerby?
Think you great nature doth not smile so freely
At all your little play.
Your larkshorned worship of the smart and seemly,
You suppose of today?
Why, Pan looks upward to the silver plume
When all the world is dumb.
And softly laughs amid his sleeping dray
To hear the city's hum.

CAMP CHARITY.

"I frequent finds myself" taking a
"notion" again in my," said the old cattlemen as he lighted a cigar,
"same as I do again in some people.
There's the word 'charity' as shor ly wears me a hat. Not but what I believe in givin, an as fast as I runs up with a human being in a hole I most likely lays off a day an pulls him out. But I don't like this yere word 'charity' none whatever. It seems like it puts you on a horse leaves the other man's foot. It sets you way up on the man who takes it way down yander.
"What you all calls 'charity' in the east is nuthin but plain every day business on the ranges, an you sees it round your camp as common as cactus, an so you ain't appland in or abosin or speculation on it none whatever.
"You see, son, it occurs numerous in the west that many a good man rolls onto his blanket in the morn in to find his luck done stamped in the night. This yere existence of ours is just the same as a cow pony.
We throws on our saddles an draws the front cinch tight, an know mighty well this yere lady wouldn't talk to no such cattle as me.
"Just then this yere strange girl comes to the stage station door an looks out.
"She's sendin up a signal smoke
now," says Doc Poets, "an I'm allow in I'll print out that away an see whatever is up anyhow." So Doc throws his belt and gun behind the bar, an he goes out to stand by a a cold horse. We was all watchin him, an the bow he makes when he throws his rope for her makes us feel proud, 'cause we sees the camp was't gone to get the worst of it.
"Well, people," says Cherokee Hall, "we're all some nervous an stamped, so s'pose we absorb some beverage pendin Doc's return?"
"We gets our whiskey an sets round, not thinkin much, an time by in half an hour Doc comes in.
"Gents," he says, "it devolves on this yere camp to make a mighty delicate play. This yere maiden, is broke, an busted; nary a single cent contents in her pockets. A bro der of hers, she says, with no brand or y'ar marks, strays on to this range two years back. She says his name was Good-Jim Good—an they tell her in Tucson he's over yere.
I recalls this yere maverick myself as a man who gets downed over in a Red last summer grabbin a bet in a fair game. Of course I'm plenty content an don't divulge none about this short'n' death, but put it up fullflesh as how he's gone somers else. I allow he has plenty of dust an is rollin poor high when he makes his last camp with us.
"This yere," continues Poets,
"pleases her. She says she got a whole outfit of relatives in Frisco an figgers he's gone there an she she'll go too as soon as she does earn the $100 to take her. There's how the doc stands, an I want you to get it. I want to say in fact when I sees the girl gleamin
in her eye when I lets go the lie about her brother, I makes up my mind immediate to formulate and tell her some more.
"It's unfortunate," says Enright,
"at a crisis like this that the simple life of Wolfville don't afford a mul titude of trails by which a young woman of repeat an recitoid may travel safe to wash. I shorly re grets it, but I'm constrained to say this yere camp is no place for this female, an she's quittin winner to leave. It appears farther by the re port of Doc Poets she needs money,
an I hopefullly calls on you to sug gest a way to throw it up.
"Let's all round in round," says
Dan Boggs, "an make a pot for her.
Travelin ain't high, an three or four stacks of bills would take her any way."
"That won't do," says Poets. "I makes a little bluff all summer on my own hand, an she gets hostile at the bare mention. Won't give her no money, none whatever. We've just got to let a deadfall an trap her into takin it.

"I'll go ten blind," says Enright,
"that what Poets states is right. Fe males is mighty funny that way about takin money from strange men, an it has come to my notice the deal bein resemblance to this —as how they seem to regard every hill a rattlesnake. Now yere's how we fixes it. Poets brings this female to the New York store, we mean while adjournin similar. The Red Light's all right, only it ain't no place for the caucus we contem plates."
"Now this yere is how we'll do," says Enright. "We'll stampede over to the store, as I remarks, an then when we're located Doc Poets'll bring in the girl. Then Poets up an says, 'Whoever is yere ank you're telling me of in Frisco?' Just like that.
An the girl replies meebly 'It's Jim Jones.' Now, yere's where I gets my cards. I laughs all easy an so ciable an says: 'Jim Jones? Not old Jones of Frisco? Why, me an Jim was old runnin mates way back in the fifties.' Then, sorter backin the play, as all proper a-discoverin the child of an old friend, I ups a kin es her. Then we sets round an pov vows, an final I recollects own Jim $45.50, an close up a claim over in Nevada in 1859—bein an interest
Jim forgets about—an I urges her, bein she's headed that way, to take Jim's dust to him.
"At this point I overturns her reason still meebly. I says, 'You he'll cash a draft on to that Red Doc brother for $100, to take her through to Frisco. I objectin, of course, mighty fullflesh, ag'in using any of her Uncle Jim's dust, unless it's forced play some along 'It's Jim Jones.' As to send him I owes her Uncle Jim, why, we makes it up by chip pin in, as was suggested by Dan Boggs."
"We takes another round of drinks on this barkeep," says Boggs.
"You can gamble old man Enright gets her straight every time."
"So we all drinks in admiration of Enright, an then Cherokee Hall,
who deals faro in the Red Light, gets his share in.
"Mr. Enright and gents," says he,
"I don't aim to seem romantic, but I'm in favor of sparlin the feelings of this yere female. 'At the same time we lines her out for her Uncle Jim, as suggested. Now, what I says is this: 'Stead of givin this female the money s'pose we makes five or six poker games out of this yere assembly—say $200 table stake
—an rakes on tens or better showed, this yere person in distress to take the rake. By pursuin of this course we encourages trade, provides the money, an the girl ain't under obli gations to nobody nor nothin.'"
"I'm in on this yere poker game," says Enright, "an I'll, Cherokee Hall, "Well, now, yere's shorly in it, Nellie," says Cherokee. "Your chair sets next to mine. I never wants no better people near me."
"I endorse the remark of Mr.
Hall," says Doc Poets, "with my full name. He's a sport and a gen tleman. Now you all center over to the store, like Enright says, while I rounds up the girl."
"Well, that's how we do it. We works round the girl too easy. En right lies an Poets lies an Cherokee he lies. Old man Enright kisses his old pard's niece, an Poets comes in similar, 'cause he knows her brother.
It's a gay time, an you bet your pony it takes a heap of woe off the girl."
"Say, Doc," whispers Nell as we goes over to the Red Light to open the poker games, "tell her to sleep in my room tonight. I won't have to need it 'cause this yere game we're in for's goin to take till mawin.
But don't you never tell her whose
it is, or y' see, she'll go campoun ers else."
"Well, son, the rake on these yere poker games was most $500, an we makes her take the whole business claimin the extra was interest on the $453.50 Enright owes me."
"The law makes him do it, miss," says Poets, "an you're dead right to take it. There's a heap of had in Wolfville about this yere sharp Enright a-own yere Uncle Jim so long, an if he don't get it squared this yere trip he'll allowin the boys are liable to lynch him some. You'd better take it; it may save his life."
"So the next day we starts her off, first givin old Monte notice we'll down him when he comes back on he drives slow. When she's gone, we all ups yere an good—like a load off our minds.
"We showed the out on her too easy," says Faro Nell as she turns from watchin the game. "You all couldn't run no brace game like that on me, you bet; cou'd you, I knew. You lars wouldn't stand no show with me. I'd seen your smoke if I'd missed your tracks, an does run upon them lies about my Uncle
Jim an what's owin him the first

HORSE AND TRACK.

Lady Wilton now has a record of 2:14.

Strathberry passed the third heat of his race at Ottumwa, Ia., last week in 2:44. He went to the half in 1:04.

A yearling colt by Bermuda, dam by Wilkes Boy, trotted a mile in 2:34 at Lexington, Ky., last week.

Joe Patchen placed to his credit the three fastest consecutive heats ever placed by a stallion when he defeated John R. Gentry at St. Louis City in 2:05, 2:04, 2:04.

Nearly thirty horses either owned or trained in Kentucky won money at the recent meeting at Evansville, Ind. The Kentucky boys still continue to take their part of the purse as the season of 1895 draws to a close.

The following four-year-olds have been named to start in the $5,000 Stallion Representative Stake that will be decided at the Lexington meeting: Lyric 2:15; Nellie A. 2:13; Lemmoner 2:14; B. B. P. 2:09; King Albert 2:10; Freedom 2:17; Baron Dillon 2:13; Queen Alfred 2:13; Red Nettle 2:13; Axinite 2:17; Burlington 2:17; Red Pat 2:18; Denting 2:13; Alkora, Gloria.

Mike Bowman has sold to Frank Blackie for Mr. Jas. Irvin, of Louisville, a handsome pair of brown geldings. One is by Wilton, dam by Black's Hambletonian, second dam by Mambrino Patchen; third dam by Dildake (son of Mambrino Chief), fourth dam by Mambrino Chief. The other is a son of Alger's Wilkes, out of a mare by Aleyon. They are each 15 hands high and evenly matched. The price paid was $1,000.

At Springfield, Ill., last Friday, Alie made an effort to beat her record of 2:03 at the State Fair Grounds track. She got off well, and the first three quarters of a mile were made at a 2:08 pace. Coming into the stretch she showed lameness, and the best she could do was 2:13. Over 30,000 persons were present. McDowell, the driver of Alie, says that in cooling her heat, Alie dislocated her whist bone, and that by reason of the injury she will probably be unable to race again this year.

A dispatch from Freeport, Ill., says that "Impetuous, the Presidential trotter belonging to E. M. McIlroy's string, has just been operated upon by the veterinary surgeon in the hope of benefiting her throat. She has had considerable trouble in breathing when going a fast mile. The doctor opened her throat and inserted a silver tube, which they hope will remedy the difficulty and put her in shape to win the $25,000 stake race at Lexington, Ky., October 8. Driver McIlroy feels confident she has the speed to win if the difficulty can be overcome."

The great trotting meeting at Lexington begins to-day. The $25,000 stake, the 2:11 pace for $4,000, and 2:17 trot is to-day's programme. Wednesday will be the free-for-all pace, with Robert J. John R. Gentry, Jo Patchen and others. 2:29 stake. On Thursday the great Transylvania stake for $5,000; 2:16 pace and 2:21 trot. On Friday the 2:17 stake for $7,500. It will be the greatest meeting of the year and you will see great sport any day you attend. It will be a ten day meeting. Write to Ed. A. Tipton for list of entries.

It will be news to many racegoers who saw the big fellow beat Beuzette in 2:05 at the New York meeting, to learn that President Cleveland drove a full brother to Azote in his carriage in Washington for a time during his present administration, says the New York Tribune. When Mr. Cleveland took his seat in 1893 he requested his friend, Nathan Straus, of this city, to select a pair of good-looking, good-natured carriage horses for the White House stable. Mr. Straus says he has had in his collection of trotters the big bay gelding, Pinote, the brother to Azote, and he let the President have this horse, together with a mate for him. Mr. Cleveland used Pinote for a time after Azote came out and took a fast record. Mr. Straus banded the President to trade horses with him, the outcome being that the big son of Whips came to New York, where he now is in the stable of Mr. Straus. Pinote is a good road horse, Mr. Straus says, but he has never been trained for speed. In Cobwebs 2:13, Mr. Straus has a half brother to Azote, both horses being by the same sire, Whips, the son of Electioneer.

Mule Growing for Profit.

One of the chief objects in stock growing is to convert all waste product of the farm into money; another is that you may sell your crops in a more concentrated form, for as much or more than the market price, and the manufacture of cheap fertilizers. For this two-fold purpose nothing seems to be more suitable than the much-noted Tennessee mule. While it is our purpose to show you the superior profits to be made by mule growing, it is well to note how very prosperous our mule grower seems to be. Many of the large estates around us have been acquired chiefly by mule growing. This is so generally true that we often hear the expression that any man of ordinary ability who will devote his time to mule growing and stay out of speculation, is sure of a competency, and even independence, should he live to a great old age.

Our great drawback to mule growing is the capital necessary to the business. To stock your farm with mules requires as much capital as your farm cost you, and most of us would prefer two farms to one farm and a few mules. If, as it seems, a few mules will bring another farm, how may we best get the mule? Let our work stock be mares such as are capable of raising the green "sugar milk." We mean by this mules can be grown to 153 to 162 at 2 1/2 to 3 years old. How may we know when we have such mares? Why, we believe in the old rule, "like begets like," and, since the mule is to be used solely for draft purposes, it stands good to reason that the best draft mares bred to the best draft jack would produce the desirable mule, and so it will, but what is the best draft mare? It is not that big overgrown, water-jointed, lifeless monstrosity of no certain breeding. Such animals cannot carry their own weight very far, while a draught mare is that mare, regardless of breed, that can carry the greatest weight the greatest distance in a given time. By this test such a mare is not likely to be the largest individual of any breed, but a medium sized mare of a large breed of family. She should have weight and style, a good dark, solid color, good, flat bone, and big, blocky feet, with legs that cannot be blemished. But after all, the only true test is try her and let her do it in three feet four inches or more, and built right, the mare a good suckler, don't be duped into selling her, for on such hinges your success. What we have said of mares may be largely applied to the jack. But since the mule is the product of man's invention, it has been observed that the head, ear, foot and bone are largely controlled by the jack and the mare gives the body; see that your jack has a good head, ear, foot and bone, with good color; and don't forget to look to his pedigree. See that his ancestors on both sides are as good, or better than he. Don't risk a first-class jack that has a screw for its dam. What about that expression we so often hear, "if you want a good mule, breed to the mule jack you can find?" Why, it only proves what there is a pedigree. See if his full brothers are not high priced, royal fellows, with a full harem of jennets; see if his crooked legs and other defects are not directly caused by the neglect of his owner.—Cor. Southern Stock Farm.

Remedy For Lice On Swine.

This is what a Swine Breeder says about a remedy for lice on swine: "Crude carbolic acid and lard, equal parts; apply on the neck, around the ears, back of the forelegs, on the back part of the hams, in the flanks and along the back. Coat oil and lard, and apply to the same parts of the animal just mentioned. In addition to the application to the animal, the sleeping quarters should be thoroughly sprinkled several times with coal oil or the crude carbolic acid and water."—Journal of Agriculture.

Bradley's Flicker.

The Hon. W. O. Bradley went into his campaign with the bloodcurdlingest war-whoop that ever rose from Kentucky's soil since the days of Daniel Boone, says the Memphis Commercial-Appeal. He went out of it with the yelp of a cur-fice preceding a clattering oyster can down the stony street. For Wm. O. is not in it any more. He has tucked his tail and fled the field. He is no longer the terrible Bradley who was advertised to eat live Democrats like oysters. He is no longer a war ringer, rampaging Numidian flod, spitting the earth with his thunderous roar and swinging his tufted tail feet in the air. He is simply Bill Bradley, who flunked and threw up the sponge, as soon as he got a hot one in his ribs. Bill simply didn't come up to the specifications. He had the faintest progress in debate, the awful reach of his deadly tongue, the cyclonic ventosity of his omnipotent lungs, all these things were down on the bill, but they didn't appear in the show. That which was a Royal Bengal tiger has shrunk to the dimensions of a harmless and very unassuming cat. The plumed knight we had been reading about is simply a vainglorious pretender, whose white plume is a stiff catanant, a sheep in wolf's clothing. Henceforth his name is lobbed and Dennis and Mr. Mudd. He is the donkey of the cockpit who squawks at the first touch of the gaff. He is the rankest quitter that ever went to the post with a thoroughbred and threw up his tail at the quariar post.

This is the last of Brad. He has done the one thing that the Kentuckians will not forgive. He has flickered. He has turned tail. He has abasquinated in the face of the enemy. He has chewed off his trigger finger and kept out of the fight. Henceforth Brad. is the thing that was. He is a pickled oyster. He is a soup-soaked remoulade, a lagging and superfluous. Has been, hanging on the ragged edge of Now. He is a bubble that rose to the surface when Bill Bradley, the Terrible, went down. He is a burst bladder, a last year's bird's nest, a back number.

So ends the strange, eventful history of the Mud Moos of the Kentucky coon.

The Mutton Sheep of the Future.

George W. Franklin says: "The breed of sheep that is to be popular in the future must of necessity be an early maturing breed. They must be a distinctly mutton variety, with all the mutton qualities well developed. They must be good keepers, good nurses and, above all, good sellers. They should dress not less than 60 per cent. of prime mutton, and the quality should be such that the buyer of this kind will not accuse the market man of selling him goat meat. This breed is in existence, and it is not confined to one breed, and we hope the time is near at hand when sheep will be bred for a purpose that can make money for its owner, and not always be subject to changes in legislation to make it a profitable sheep. The profitable sheep will preclude the use of scrub fairs and scrub care. It means good feed and plenty of it, and, above all, it means that American sheep farming has entered on a new development in which all the possibilities are distributed along the line of good mutton. Mutton sheep and liberal feeding, coupled with early maturity, will be the requisites of profitable sheep production in the near future."

A Household Treasure.

D. W. Fuller, of Canajoharie, N. Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family has always found the very best results follow its use; that he would be without it, if procured by him. Dr. King's New Discovery, Catkirk, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best cough remedy; that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottle free at W. S. Lloyd's drugstore. Regular size 50 cents and $1.

Anyone Can Dream Success.

It's quite another thing to win it. When a business grows as anyone wide-awake can see that this is growing, there's a pretty good reason for it. We know what those reasons are, so do thousands of careful buyers hereabouts. We want more thousands to know. A sound sense exists between the people and this store from an acquaintance of 35 years mutual service. Certainty that patrons get the largest selections of goods at lowest prices, and what they purchase at the lowest cost it can be given. The confidence increases as we do. We are not the people to discover what is to their own interest. Working successfully seems to double our strength.

For Railroad Commissioner, 3d District—
G. R. KELLER, of Carlisle

For Representative, 9th Legislative District—(Centres of Montgomery and Meigs)
W. F. HORTON.

Public Speaking.

Hon. H. T. Tyler, the Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor, will speak at the Court-house in this city, to-morrow (Wednesday) afternoon, at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Frank Horton, the Democratic nominee for Representative from this Legislative District is making an active canvass, and is on every hand receiving most gratifying evidences of the popularity of his election beyond question. Mr. Horton's record as a clear-headed and faithful business man and an active party worker are things of which his Republican opponent cannot hope to win.

W. O. Bradley, the Republican candidate for Governor, who gained for himself the concept of a Kentuckian by his cowardly skulking out of the joint debate with General Hardin, has not made much headway in his gas-faculous canvass. He failed to awaken the enthusiasm among his followers that was expected when he was nominated. He committed the one sin that Kentuckians will not forgive—when he showed the white feather, and though he froths at the mouth, and makes the widest of wild charges against the Democratic party, his speeches fall on dull and listless ears, because he is not able to face his adversary. There is going to be a great victory in November and Mr. Bradley will after that time be an unconsidered factor in state politics.

W. O. Bradley has not once, but twice than once, said by his vote he will honor a negro in preference to one of his own race. This he has challenged the deep ground of prejudice of the people of Kentucky. No people are willing to be kinder to or more considerate of the inferior race, that is among us, but they will not submit to the disgrace of having a member of it rule over them. Mr. Bradley has said to the white people of Kentucky, in his votes, "a negro is just as good as one of you." This is a sentiment a Kentuckian does not touch his brook, and many will be the votes Mr. Bradley will lose in consequence of it. Bill Bradley will be sent to the rear, just where he belongs by the people of Kentucky.

There are some Supple-Jacks going over the State, by name, called cranks, but are only representatives in politics of the Republican party. They insult and make charges against the head of the Democratic ticket, which are only bubbles. Gen. Hardin's official acts have always been open for investigation and at no time has there ever been any crookedness that could be applied to him. He has been honest and bold, and the same tactics in his canvass frightened Bradley from the stump. He could not meet the facts thrown into his teeth and like a yellow dog kicked in the side he howled, tucked his tail and squeaked off. For this so-called man Supple-Jacks are howling from every stump and "Ring, Ring," is all they can say. The Republican party has caused by their Legislation the panic times from which we are now recovering. They left the U. S. Treasury empty and if they could get hold of our State at fair, where in the name of Heaven would we be.

BIG BARBECUE.

Democracy and Burgoo Will Flow As From a Fountain.

The following note was, yesterday, received from Hon. J. M. Benton, of Winchester:

Winchester, Ky., Oct. 14, 1895.
Dear Sirs:—There will be a Democratic barbecue at Natural Bridge, in Powell county, Thursday, Oct. 24th. Speaking by Gen. Hardin, Col. Beckwith, Col. A. S. Berry, Judge Beckner, Hon. A. G. Caruth and others. Special train on K. U. or L. & E. from Lexington that morning. Your people can meet at K. U. Junction and return that evening. Low rate; plenty of beef. Get out a good crowd.
J. M. BENTON.

John C. Wood, the Republican candidate for Railroad Commissioner, has a load to carry in his record of voting for a negro for office in preference to a white man, that will prove a burden too heavy to stand up under. His vote along this line is a matter of public record and cannot be denied or explained away. That the people of Eastern Kentucky will not vote for a man who thus wantonly insults the intelligence of his own race, has already been, and John C. Wood will find they hold it against him also.

Attention, Democrats!

At a meeting of the City Democratic Committee for Mt. Sterling, Ky., held on Oct. 12, 1895 it was ordered that mass conventions be held, on Friday, Oct. 18, 1895 at 2 o'clock p. m. at each voting place in said city for the purpose of nominating two Democratic candidates in each ward for Councilmen for said city.

H. R. FRENCH,
Ch'm City Democratic Committee.

Public Speaking.

Hon. H. M. Woodford and Judge B. F. Day, are announced to speak at the Court-house in Frenchburg, on Saturday, October 19, 1895. Speaking to begin at 1 o'clock, p. m. Col. Theo. Turner will also speak at Frenchburg on Saturday, October 26, 1895.

Mass Conventions will be held in each ward of the city on Friday, Oct. 18, for the purpose of nominating candidates on the Democratic ticket for councilmen. See call elsewhere in this issue by H. R. French, Chairman of City Committee.

"Bradley Flickered!" is the title of an article on another page. Read and enjoy it. It is a true likeness of Bradley to-day. He prouts loud by himself but don't come to meet Hardin any more.

Big Fish.

Messrs. Robert Barnes, sr., and Jacob Trumbo are up in Carter county fishing, and yesterday they sent in three big fish that weighed 25 pounds. The largest of the three weighed 11 pounds.

Claude Pexton and Charlie Petry came home telling what big fish they hooked and didn't get, but Uncle Bob and Uncle Jake send in the fish as proof of what they do.

Mr. Geo. W. Anderson, a highly respected citizen and prominent business man, of Portsmouth, O., died on Oct. 8th, aged 65 years. Many years ago, Mr. Anderson was a citizen of this county and is remembered by the older ones of our community. Before the war he sold goods at Howard's Mill, and from about '61 to '66 he was engaged in the mercantile business in Mt. Sterling in partnership with the late C. J. Glover. His son, George H. Anderson, married Annie, daughter of his old partner, C. J. Glover. Mr. Anderson was not only a good business man, but his life was full of good deeds done to elevate and ennoble his fellows. The local papers devote wide space to eulogies on the life of this Christian gentleman and useful citizen.

Digby Bell, "Nancy Lee."

Digby Bell is coming here with Fred Miller's new theatrical opera, "Nancy Lee." He plays the part of Gabriel Swift, a role drawn strongly from life, and one that was familiar to many communities, some thirty years ago, during our civil war. Gabriel Swift is a provost-marshal, and is fashioned after a fellow who lived out west known to have been a horse doctor, school master, town squire, in fact anything you saw fit to call him, and always conspicuous in political gatherings. When war was declared, he was by some manner of means made provost-marshal of the district, an appointment which gave him supreme power. He considered a citizen to be shot on the thinnest pretext, and could even exercise his authority on high officials. Physically, he was the tallest thing in the district. It will be seen from the above that the author of "Nancy Lee" has ample opportunities to create laughter and merriment. For instance, he brings Swift on board a United States man-of-war to interfere for the release of a nephew, who is a prisoner of war. Assuming his provost-marshal's supremacy, he threatens with death a sailor who has paid no heed to his presence, whereupon the Yankee tar throws him overboard thus showing that Colonels, Generals and Provost-marshals may be all right on dry land, but in the navy they "are not in it." At Grand Opera House, Oct. 28.

An Ordinance.

An ordinance fixing the penalty for non payment of taxes. Be it ordained by the Board of Council, that all unpaid taxes for the year 1895, on the first day of January 1896 there shall be a penalty of ten per cent. added thereto. This ordinance shall take effect from and after its passage and publication as required by law.

Nearly one entire side of our house is devoted to our Shoe Department. Our Shoes were all bought before the advance in leather, and our customers will get the benefit of our foresight, as we feel it our duty to look after their interest and save them a dollar when we can. We have anything you want in Men's, Ladies', Children's, Misses' and Infants' Boots and Shoes, and we guarantee that our cash prices will save you 20 per cent on cash and every pair we sell you.

Jackets, Wraps, Capes.

We will open up about the 20th of September a most beautiful line of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Jackets, Wraps and Capes, and in order to get the choice patterns in sizes to fit you, give us an early call and select them before they are gone, as the entire stock will consist of the very best and most fashionable garments out this season, and all readily sellers; no old carried-over Cloaks, all fresh and new.

Space will not permit us to name prices on the many different lines of goods we carry, but a visit from you is all we ask. Our knock-out competition, Cash Prices, will do the rest.

Clothing.

You can buy Men's, Boys', Children's and Youth's Suits and Pants of Suits from us in All-wool, well made, good quality, stylish and nobly, for less money than shoddy trash would cost you elsewhere. Our customers after speculations of amazement at the low cash prices we are asking for anything in our Clothing Department. They want to know "how we can sell them so cheap." Our answer is simply: "Underbuy, Undersell, cash on delivery."

Blankets, Comforts.

Blankets and Comforts at your own price. They are piled up selling high, and will positively have to move among the first things that go out, as they consume too much space. Come and get your Blankets and comforts and let us save you enough money on them to buy you a nice full dress. Real good White or Silver Gray Blankets, full 104 size, pretty borders, will be sold at 45 cents per pair. Others in proportion just as cheap. Call early and see them.

HATS. Just received our fall stock of Men's and Boys' stylish Hats, in all the new shapes—Crushers, Alpines, etc.; all colors and prices. If you need a nice Hat for a very little money, call and get one.

NOTIONS. A trip through our NOTION DEPARTMENT will be a pleasure and a compensation to anybody. You will find anything in small Wares that ever a lady could ask for, and when you get to HOSIERY call a halt and price them all. Some rare bargains in store for you in this line. Come prepared to buy Hosiery enough for your whole family, for you certainly will feel like doing it when you have our prices on them.

UNDERWEAR. We thought of everybody when we bought Underwear, and knew they would all want a good thing for nothing. You can get just what you are looking for in this stock. You need go no further, and when the price is mentioned on what you want, you won't want to go.

THE MANY ATTRACTIONS WE ARE NOW SHOWING is bound to crowd our store with customers, so when you come to the door and see the house crowded, don't pass on thinking you can't get waited on. Come in; we won't keep you waiting long, as we will have nice, accommodating salesmen to show you through and entertain you while in the house.

Thanking you for past patronage and hoping by honest, fair dealing to merit a continuance of same, we are respectfully

What Pleases Others Might Not Please You

In every instance, but what pleases an highly educated, up-to-date mechanical expert, who is thoroughly posted on the construction of bicycles, from a wheelman's standpoint, as well as that of a strictly high-grade mechanic, is a pretty good pointer to buyers who are in search of the best the market affords.

LOUISVILLE, KY., June 15, 1895.

R. F. Maxwell, Mgr. Indiana Bicycle Co., City.

Dear Sir:—Referring to the Waverley bicycle which I bought of you a few weeks ago, I will candidly admit that I am delighted with it. My first impression was one of surprise at the ease and smoothness of its motion. It appears to be ample strong and substantial in construction and every one must admit that it is most graceful in appearance. I consider it a strictly high grade machine; otherwise I should not have bought it. It is all you claim it to be. Wishing you well merited success, I remain yours truly,

ONE HUNDRED YEARS

Of Presbyterianism In Mt. Sterling.

History of the First Presbyterian Church by L. T. Chiles.

A CENTURY OF GOOD DEEDS.

Mr. L. T. Chiles, ruling elder of the First Presbyterian church, at the centennial exercises on Wednesday, declared the following admirable address setting forth the work of the church for the last one hundred years. He said:

"And Pharaoh said unto Jacob, how old art thou?"

How rapidly our mind travels back over the dusty highway of the past, when this startling question comes to us, revivifying in a moment not only the sunny spots that we can see for good, but the gloomy wastes as well, recalling not only the good, but evil deeds, not only by well spent hours, but days of idleness and neglected opportunity, till like the hoary headed Fairclough we also are ready to exclaim "now and evil have the days of the years of my life been." As with the individual, so with the aggregation of individuals—the church, and though 100 years have taken their hurried flight since the organization of the first Presbyterian Church in this community, viewed in the light of external accomplishments, she is constrained to say "few and evil have the days of the years of my life been."

What were the grand opportunities of this pioneer church? Why did it not preempt this glorious territory? And why is not Presbyterianism the prevailing faith of her people to-day? Echo answers why. It cannot be said that she had zeal without knowledge or knowledge without zeal for it is an undoubted fact that her ministers have ever been men of education, and their ardor has been shown by their ever bodily pressing into new and unexplored fields; it is like their remote prototypes they have been too busily engaged tilling the mist, aloe and cummin, splitting distal hairs and neglecting the weightier matters of the law? God forbid! I know not, but one thing I know the early Presbyterian was nothing if not pugnacious. "Tell it not in Gath, publish it not in the streets of Askelon" but "in true and pity 'tis, 'tis true."

Touch up the average Presbyterian on the subject of God's sovereignty, regeneration and sanctification, election—predestination and total depravity. If you want to see him promptly assume like the fretful porcupine a warlike attitude, with every quill distended, and dipped in ink of the deepest controversial dye; there is always the sound of a going in the tops of the millinery trees over against the Presbyterian camp. Wars and rumors of wars seem to be his pleasant heritage, and though not like our quarrelsome Hibernian friend, literally spilling for a fight, he always has his armor on and lance at rest, ready to take a tilt at any windmill that may have in sight, but with all his faults and his pugnacity, we love him still, for no matter how ardent and even dogmatical the Presbyterian Church may be in her instruction, she is one of the most liberal in her conditions of christian fellowship. It will be readily perceived that I do not approach this work in any spirit of vain glory, for I have long been framed that the people who blow their own horns, sell down furnish first class music for other folk, besides I have no desire to ridicule or unnecessarily criticize, the only motive for engaging in the preparation of this brief sketch being a desire to put in shape for future reference, the salient facts in connection with the establishment of this church, a mere chronological epitome, for it would be impossible on account of the paucity of suitable material to write a full and satisfactory history. The records in the main seem to have been kept with an eye single to briefly, one eye closed records so to speak. A telegraphic message might be more explicit but could not well be much briefer than most of the minutes of the early Church, for they could hardly be said to contain 60 full seconds, and I could wish no greater good to this assembly than that the recording angel may be just as brief in jotting down their shortcomings, as by Bill Sykes of Noah Webster's great book the records are exceedingly fragrant.

ry and not a work that could rivet your interest till midnight, while the fire went out and the thermometer went down to 47 below zero. So we are left to surmise the difficulties that beset the early fathers, the opposition of men and devils, the disappointments, the discouragements and the heartaches, as well as the times of rejoicing and refreshing.

Whether our fathers labored as wisely and as well as they should I know not, but that they laid a good foundation we may be quite sure else we would not be here to-day celebrating this 100th anniversary. We do most fully acknowledge the debt we owe them, whether their labors were all they should have been or not, and are grateful for the inheritance of an unimpaired name, and the memory of a not a few good men and women who toiled long and most usefully in this field.

Old age is looked upon askance by youth, for to them it is synonymous with decrepitude and decay, the lean and slumped pantaloon, with spectacles on nose and pouch at side, with utter uselessness and oblivion. This may be partly true of men but God's Church grows younger and more vigorous with the passing years, for as a river that has its source in some obscure spring on the distant hills it slowly but surely flows itself past all obstructions ever widening and deepening in its onward progress; and though the progress of the little local church may hardly be discernable, yet if its source is really divine, no human agency can prevent its advancement.

Called of God, James Price Howe, one of North Carolina's hardy sons, early in 1794, went out from his native State and settled in Kentucky. In the month of July, 1795, three years after the admission of our State into the Union and the election of her first Governor, he organized the first Presbyterian church of Mt. Sterling under the name of the "Little Mountain Church," the name by which the insignificant village of a few log cabins and the lustrous blacksmith shop was then known.

In the following November the first line of flat boats was established on the Ohio river, operating between Cincinnati and Louisville. Later that year a place of some 500 inhabitants, Gen'l. Washington was President of the United States, and Gen'l. Isaac Shelby Governor of Kentucky, hardly two years had elapsed since the capture by the Indians of Morgan Station on State creek, not many miles from this place, and the carrying into captivity of some 19 women and children, and only the year before had the decisive battle of Maumee Rapids been fought, when Maumee Anthony Wayne, with some 1600 Kentucky Volunteers, and the same number of Regulars completely discomfited the North Western Indians, and forced them into a treaty that left this territory free from organized incursions, though small predatory bands appeared occasionally for a year or so thereafter.

Montgomery county was then not organized, but was still a part of Clark and Bath county was not formed from Montgomery till sixteen years later. There was no newspaper, bank, or turnpike much less a railroad in the State. True to her history, the church was pushing to the front in advance of these things. The region around was a barren wilderness, and this did not deter Mr. Howe, a Carolinian, who, putting his trust in God, boldly planted the church's standard in this remote field, where he labored with more or less success for some thirty years.

The first church building was constructed of logs, and was located on a lot at the southeast corner of Hinkson and High streets, which was known for years as the "Old Presbyterian Ground." There seems to have been from the very beginning an unpleasantness close affinity between the Presbyterian Church and the grave yard, still history has profited from this association, for in many places where flourishing churches existed 40 or 50 years ago, the only Presbyterians left to-day are those who are located permanently in the old burial ground. At one time in a controversy between two rival points trying to secure the building of a church, the convincing argument advanced by one was the beautiful location for a grave yard. According to tradition the first house of worship was a two story affair, the lower room being used for religious worship, the upper story, which was reached by a double flight of stairs at the rear and outside of the building, was used for school purposes, the Presbyterian church always believing that church and school, or religion and education should go hand in hand. The lot was presented to the church by Hugh Forbes, a Scotch Presbyterian, who was afterwards buried on a small artificial mound near the center of the lot.

The name of the town as chosen in honor of the high place of this same man (Sitting Bull) on account of a large artificial mound, which formerly stood on the lot on the corner of Queen and Little Mountain streets, it received the prefix "Mount." It is to be deeply regretted that this site was not bought and held as public property for the mound was an unusually large one, and was destroyed a number of years ago and its prehistoric remains scattered to the winds, to make way for a dwelling house, and a very narrow City Council afterwards changed the significant and historic name of the street "Little Mountain," to the exceedingly prosaic and common place "Locust."

In later years the congregation worshipped in the old Court House until 1831, when the present building was erected, the dedicatory sermon being delivered by Rev. Nathan Hall, then of Lexington, November 5, 1831. The names of the pastors and ministers who have served the church from its organization to the present time are as follows: Joseph Price Howe, who the historian says "was a devout man, although of moderate ability, and who took a conspicuous part in the great revival of 1800;" he ministered to these people from 1795 until his death in 1827; Jacob F. Price, as a licentiate in 1830; Dewey Whitely, from 1831 to 1835; Joseph C. Siles, a most eloquent but erratic man, for a few months during 1835; George W. Coons, 1837; William Y. Allen, 1843; Charles A. Campbell, 1845; J. W. Wallace was installed as pastor October 15, 1846, and continued in that relation until 1850; Samuel P. Little, 1851, his brief stay being accounted for by the indignation of his leading elder over his runaway marriage; he was succeeded in 1852 by L. A. Lowry. Rev. R. F. Caldwell, the oldest of those now living, served the church most acceptably and faithfully from 1854 to 1861, doing much for the peace and harmony of the community in those troublous times; he was succeeded by William George, whose pastorate was cut short by the transfer of military operations to our midst, the church being used for a while as a barracks, and after the burning of our Court House the sessions of the court were held here for a term or two. Thomas Urmon came in 1866; during his ministry a meeting was held in which he was assisted by Rev. Jos. Evans, and a number of the most useful members of the church have ever held with it at that time. Joel H. Lytle succeeded Mr. Urmon in 1868. About this time the question which divided our great Presbyterian church arose in this church also, and resulted in a separation, part of the members adhering to the Presbyterian church in the United States of America and part going to the Presbyterian church in the United States. It would be proper at this point to explain fully and clearly the causes that led to the division of the churches, but as your history has only been a member of the church some twenty years, it is hardly had time to learn just exactly what the difficulty really was. The two congregations continued to worship together however, being supplied by ministers from Ebenezer and West Lexington Presbyteries until 1873, when licentiate W. O. Goodloe was ordained and installed as pastor. Early in his ministry steps were taken to remodel the church building, as it had grown dilapidated and disreputable looking, the floor had an inclination of nearly 30 degrees from the front to the rear making difficult ascent by the aged or infirm, and the ceiling was supported by a number of unsightly pillars. It was put in its present shape at that time and much credit is due to Mr. Goodloe, who was indefatigable in his efforts to secure the funds necessary to accomplish this work. The membership at this time was only 16 souls, but what they lacked in members was made up in grit, grace, and gumption.

From 1873 to 1884 the separate congregations occupied the same building, each trying to secure the membership of the other church proposed that they would either buy whatever interest we had in the property or sell their interest. It was agreed by this church to purchase whatever property rights the other church might have, which was done, the price agreed on and paid being $1,500. During the same year the present manse was built at an expense of $2,200. Mr. Goodloe served the church until 1880, then followed H. M.

Epilepsy 20 Years.

Cured by Dr. Miles' Nerveine.

A few years ago, Mr. L. W. Gallaher, was an extensive successful cigar manufacturer of tobacco products. Attacked with epilepsy, he was obliged to give up his business. The attacks came upon him most opportunely. One time falling from a carriage, at another down stairs, and often in the street, he fell down a shaft in the mill, his injuries nearly proving fatal. Mr. Gallaher writes from Milwaukee, Feb. 16, '95.

"There are some more miserable than epileptics. For 20 years I suffered with epileptic fits, having as high as five in one night. I tried any number of physicians, paying to each a fee of $20.00 and have done little for years but search for something to help me, and have taken all the leading remedies, but none benefited. A year ago my son, Chas. S. Gallaher, druggist at 191 Bond St., Milwaukee, gave me Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerveine, and I tried it with gratifying results. Have had but two fits since I began taking it. I am better now in every way than I have been in 20 years."

Dr. Miles' Remedies are sold by druggists on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit or your money refunded. Book on the Heart and Nerves, free. Address, Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Dr. Miles' Remedies Restore Health.

Rogers serving the church as a licentiate from October 1880 until June 1881, when he was installed as pastor and continued in this relation till June 14th, 1882. His ministry was a benediction to this people, his mild and gentle manners disarming the opposition and the prejudices that had grown up in this quarter, and he not only gained the esteem and good opinion of the community for himself but for his congregation as well.

Robert W. Clelland was stated supply during 1883, being compelled on account of ill health to leave after six months service, very much to the regret of the entire membership. F. N. Baldwin served the church 1884 to 1885. During the year he was assisted in a protracted meeting by Dr. Wheland, then synodical missionary. He was, in the largest number of additions to the church that had ever occurred in any one year during its history.

Henry L. Nave was installed as pastor in July 1885, and continued to serve the church most acceptably until 1892. During his ministry the church was greatly blessed, and for the first time in its long history was self supporting, there may have been ministers previous to this time who had been self supporting, but this was the beginning of adequate support of his ministry directly by the church. No minister ever enjoyed more fully the confidence and love of his church and no man he ministered to layman ever left a community more universally regretted.

A. J. Arrick, the present pastor was installed October 27th, 1892. Of whose name I am still living.

The names of the Ruling Elders of the church from 1808 to the present time are as follows: John Henderson, David Dunsley, Silas Rogers, John Evans, John Thompson, Wm. Thompson, Richard Apperson, G. Wm. Thompson, S. L. Robbins, Robert H. Crooks, Ebenezer B. Bishop, Wm. Walker, O. S. Tenney, Samuel C. Elzer, H. C. Rainey, James Howard, Thomas F. Rogers, Richard Apperson, Jr., Landon T. Chiles, Silas Soter, Samuel C. McWilliams and Dr. J. A. Vanau.

The following named persons have served as Deacons of this church: George Black, Joseph Allen, H. C. Rainey, J. B. Bright, Thomas H. Fox, George D. Hickey, Thomas H. Rogers, Landon T. Chiles, Wm. F. Apperson, T. C. Cunningham, F. Senter and Howard VanAntwerp.

Six families are now represented in the church and Sabbath School by eleven persons of the fourth generation, affording witness of the blessing of God to the rights of, even unto children of children. This church from the very beginning has been peculiarly blessed in the character of men who have from the time of its first planting, Louisville Synod has been exceedingly kind sending in our country our professors to assist us, and we have had the benefit of the teaching and preaching of such men as Drs. M. K. Y. Yokes, Archibald, Clelland and Young. The church at Lexington being also with men and women who have been

The improvements on the Baptist church are progressing rapidly. It is expected that it will be ready for dedication by November 25. Dr. Keerfoot, of Louisville, is expected, will preach the dedication sermon, which will be followed by a protracted meeting in which Pastor Gill will be assisted by Rev. B. B. Bailey, of Winchester.

Coleman-Wilson.

Mr. Lindsey H. Coleman and Miss Mattie Davis Wilson will be married at the home of the bride's father, Mr. J. D. Wilson, on Wednesday, November 6, 1895, at 4:30 p. m. Elder H. D. Clark will officiate at the ceremony that makes this excellent couple man and wife. Everybody knows, and all who know, like Lin. Coleman. He is a bright and diligent young business man, who, if life is spared him, will be heard from in the busy world in the no very distant future. His promised wife is one of the sweetest, most loving and most lovable girls we know, who will make the man of her choice a help-mate indeed. After the marriage the couple will take a trip South, including a visit to several of the principle cities of that section. On their return home they will take rooms at Mrs. E. Coleman's, on High street, The Advocate, in advance, extends congratulations.

Cards are out announcing the candidacy C. H. Bryan and W. A. Sutton for Councilmen of the First Ward; J. M. Isola and J. W. Burroughs for the Second Ward, and C. G. Glover and J. M. Conroy for the Fourth Ward, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Four of the above gentlemen are serving the city as Councilmen now. They have been faithful and watchful of the city's interest and we know of no others who could have done better. The other two, Mr. Sutton and Mr. Burroughs, we believe, will guard our interests as faithfully and intelligently, but if in the wisdom of the party there are others who could serve the city better, let them have them. In this case it is not the man seeking the position, but the position them, and it is the call of duty alone that will prompt their acceptance. In the Third Ward we understand the negroes are having secret meetings, excluding even the white Republican voters, with the view of putting out candidates, and should they decide to make a race contest, there is a sufficient number of them in this ward to insure their election.

Lexington Trols.

On last Wednesday the great pacing race between Robert J., Jo Patchen and John R. Gentry took place. The track was fast but the day was cold with a piercing wind from the North, making fast time impossible. The race was a great one and the struggle between these fast pacers was enough to stir most any man. Robert J. drew the pole with Patchen 2nd, Coleridge 3rd, Gentry on outside. They got the wind after a few scores and the battle began. Robert J. set a heart-breaking pace which Patchen did not shrink from. These two went as a double team to the half in 1:01. At this point Patchen, white horse was showing in front, Robert J. still kept up the clip, with the black horse right at his head. The pace was terrific, but Patchen never faltered. Before they reached the three-fourth pole, Robert J. gamdags he could not stand the strain and lift his feet. From there home Patchen had it all his own way and won in a jog in 2:08. If Patchen had not been drawn in, the mile would have been in 2:04 or better. We never saw as game a fight on any track as this heat was, and there is no horse living that could stand the strain of having that black demon hang so persistently for three-fourths of a mile at the clip they were going without giving up. The second heat Gentry took a hand. Patchen set the pace with Robert J. a close second, but the clip was not so fast to the half. Gentry being a good third and Coleridge two lengths back. From the half beam the fight was hot as they entered the stretch. Gentry was coming up on the outside very fast and with a great burst of speed McHenry landed Gentry a winner by a neck from Patchen with Robert J. only a half length back. The finish of the heat was a grand one. The third heat was another great battle. Patchen took the pole from Gentry before the half was reached, but Robert J. was determined to stay with the leader. There was no lagging on the back side stretch. It was a battle royal to the wire, Robert J. winning in a whip-lap finish by a head from Patchen with Gentry a length back, Coleridge fourth. The fourth heat Robert J. and Patchen did the fighting. They were head and head at the quarter, but before the half was reached Patchen had the pole and held it to the wire. Gentry, thinking it useless to force the black horse out at the expense of Robert J., Gentry not making any move for the heat. It was evident from the start that Gentry and McHenry were out to beat the Hamilton entry. The time was 2:09, and Patchen had two hosts to his credit. For the fifth heat McHenry being satisfied that Robert J. was done for, concluded that he could now beat the black horse with Gentry, and try the bid but Patchen would not down, and won the heat and race under a whipping finish from Gentry by half a length, Coleridge third, Robert J. fourth, time 2:08. This closed one of the greatest races we ever saw. No one who saw the race can help admire the gameness of Jo Patchen. During the five heats he never raised his head once, but took the whip and fought each heat from start to finish, and after whipping Robert J. had to administer the same dose to John R. Gentry, which is a thing that no horse but Jo Patchen could do. Patchen to-day is the greatest horse on the turf.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound of imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free. J. F. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists, 75c. 10-61

A WEEK OF PRESBYTERIANISM.

Ebenezer Presbytery Synod of Kentucky and Woman's Missionary Society.

The services in connection with the centennial of the First Presbyterian Church, closed Friday night, having been full of interest from beginning to end.

Monday night Ebenezer Presbytery convoked being opened with a sermon by the retiring Moderator, Rev. Henry A. Brown. "Father" Caldwell was elected Moderator, and in his speech of acceptance informed his hearers that he would not complete his fifty-eighth year as a minister until Wednesday, nor his eighty-fourth year of life until next month. In his presiding, as in his service of Sunday morning, he showed himself to be still an active man.

The Synod was opened Friday night by the retiring Moderator of that body, Rev. C. P. Luce, of Owensboro. Rev. J. J. Blackburn, of Covington, was elected Moderator, and Rev. E. L. Warren, of Louisville, Temporary Clerk. The Committee on Arrangements made its report, setting apart Wednesday as a special day for the centennial exercises proper.

At 8:30 a. m. Wednesday, Synod convened for a business session, adjourning at 10 o'clock for the Centennial exercises.

The first item on the programme was a history of the Church, by L. T. Chiles. It is enough to simply say that the history was prepared and read by Mr. Chiles, and it is published in full in another column we forbear commenting.

The committee had given a place on the programme for reminiscences, but judging from the length at which Brothers Goodloe and Rainey spoke, and the interest with which the people listened, the time was entirely too short. Many amusing incidents were related by these gentlemen.

"It would be impossible for us, with the limited time and space we have, to speak of all the addresses in full, but they were delivered by some of the most prominent men in Kentucky, and were all masterpieces in themselves. Rev. J. C. Mott spoke on "The Relation of Presbyterianism to Other Denominations." Dr. Martin's name had been placed on the programme but he was prevented from participating on account of sickness. The committee found a good substitute, however, in Dr. Phraner, who spoke on "A Century of Missions." The two addresses following, on "Presbyterianism, Its Present and Future," by Drs. Hamilton and Worrell, closed the afternoon programme, but before the congregation dispersed the communion of the Lord's Supper was observed.

The audience which gathered in the evening taxed the building to its utmost capacity. Dr. Hays, of Mayville, spoke on "The Relation of Presbyterianism to Education." Dr. Hays, though deprived of sight, stands second to none in his ability as a thinker and orator. He was followed by Dr. Condit, of Ashland, who spoke on "Christian Citizenship." Every voter in the State should have heard that address. It was a masterful plea for the carrying of one's religion into their politics without in the least degrading the religion.

We can not pass by the music of the occasion, furnished by the orchestra of the Presbyterian Sunday School under the leadership of Prof. Arthur Neville, and the solos by Misses Hendrick and Ayers.

The entire day was a rich feast, and the First Presbyterian Church is to be congratulated upon the success of their celebration.

Thursday was devoted to the business of Synod, the most important item of which was the change made in their Home Mission plan looking to self support, establishing headquarters at Louisville. Synod adjourned Thursday night to meet in the College Street Church, Louisville, next October.

On Thursday night Dr. Phraner delivered an address on the subject of "Our Own Land as a Mission Field."

The Ladies' Synodical Society of Home and Foreign Missions held a meeting Thursday and Friday in the Southern Presbyterian Church at which much important business was transacted. Mrs. McKee, of Danville, was elected President of the Home Society, and Mrs. Lewis, of Louisville, President of the Foreign Society.

Friday night was the closing service of the week and was in charge of the ladies, who proved themselves not one whit behind their "liege lords" in ability. In fact the men had better look well to their laurels or the sisters will wear them in their stead. There were three addresses, each of which were equal to any of those delivered by their brothers. Mrs. Lewis spoke on "Love for Christ." Miss Farley, of Utah, told of her work among the Mormons, and Miss Holmes, of Syria, while she spoke of Syria. The meeting closed at half past nine o'clock, but the audience seemed loth to leave. The verdict of all is that the meetings have been full of interest, and we will be glad to have these people meet with us again.

The local A. J. Arrick, president of the Mrs. Society, was entirely self-reliant, with grace and dignity, introducing each speaker with appropriate remarks.

Little Clay, the eighteen months old son of John B. Phipps, is very sick and his demise is expected at any moment.

Marvelous Result

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Michigan we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at River Junction she was down with Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results. Trial bottles free at W. S. Lloyd's DrugStore. Regular size 50c. and 1.00.

In the Stock Farm $6,000 purse for foals of 1895 to be contested in 1897, it costs only one-twentieth of one per cent. to start, and the last and largest payment does not have to be made until June 1, 1897 the year of the race.

The party committees—Democratic and Republican—of Lexington, met last week and made up a compromise ticket for school trustees, four of each party, hoping by this method to turn the woman's ticket down.

Judge Jas. W. Groves, of the city, was appointed on the committee, appeals at the last session of the Grand Lodge of I. O. O. F., a very important committee. He with Pat Grand, G. H. Strother made their report to Watson Lodge last evening.
